Optional tent types:

The tent is used a lot in the outdoors, but there are many optional tent types, tent specifications, tent manufacturers, how to choose the right tent for the activity?

Choose the right type of tent: there are many types of tent, in order to choose the right tent, then it is necessary to choose according to the type of activity and the characteristics of the tent. The most commonly used is the herringbone canopy room, the optional span is large, the price is cheap, and there are a variety of changes, such as exhibition activities can choose glass walls, wedding banquets can choose transparent tarpaulin, storage optional sandwich panel wall, ABS wall and so on.

If you want a more elegant and beautiful tent, you can choose the shaped tent, if you want to bring more creativity to the activity or the ball curtain projection optional ball tent, and you can choose the peach tent to create the assembled sports stadium.

Determine the appropriate tent specifications:

The two most important factors to determine the size of the tent specifications are the size of the site and the space needs of the activity, if there are specific site specifications, then this issue does not need to be considered. If the space area is not clear, then you can tell the needs of the manufacturer, they can give you the appropriate specifications with rich experience.

For example, take the banquet tent as an example, a table of 10 people, including the surrounding space, needs about 15 square meters, if you need 30 tables, then about 450 square meters of the tent, if you also need stage or other space, then increase on this basis!

Choose the right way of cooperation:

Leasing, buying, second-hand are the most common way of cooperation provided by the tent manufacturers, and as for the specific choice of procurement that way is determined according to the number of uses of the tent, the use cycle, the budget cost, like some large-scale activities, exhibitions need a large area of tent space in the short term, then leasing is a cost-effective choice. If the appearance of the tent is not too strict, then renting the tent is also a very affordable choice, which can allow the manufacturer to give you a quote for comparison!
