Product Description

Luxury Water Proof Prefabricated Glamping Safari Canvas Tent For Outdoor Events

Introduction:

Roof fabric material: The roof of the hotel tent is double-layered. The outer layer of fabric is 1050g PVDF membrane material, which is mainly used for waterproofing, heat insulation and UV protection.

Inner fabric: The inner layer of fabric is 850g PVC, which is also waterproof, heat-insulating and UV-resistant, but its main function is to close the room and block dust and sand.

Frame material: The frame material includes the roof steel structure skeleton and the steel structure support column of the wall. We use hot-dip galvanizing anti-corrosion treatment for steel structures. So our resort tents can be used not only in the mountains and in the jungle, but also in the desert and the sea. Our support columns will also be affixed with anti-corrosion wood, so that the structure of the house is like a wooden structure.

Wall material: Our wall material is divided into soft wall and hard wall. The soft wall is mainly a PVC membrane material wall, which is generally used for safari resort tents. Hard walls have sandwich panels, glass walls and calcium silicate panels. Wall materials can be customized according to customer requirements.

Windows: The windows are mainly composed of an aluminum frame and glass. The surface of the aluminum frame is painted with wood grain to make the window look like a wooden structure.

Door: Our door has single open glass door, double open glass door, single open wooden door and double open wooden door.

Ground systems: Ground systems are also known as decks or platforms. Its shape is mainly round and rectangular, and it is mainly composed of wood preservative and steel structure. Its role is mainly to keep the structure of the house away from the ground, to keep the house dry, and to support the house.
