Frequently Asked Questions (FAQ)

Q1: Is this tent suitable for major Belgian music festivals?

A: Absolutely. This model is engineered for large-scale public events and carries full TUV SUD EN 13782 certification. It has been designed with the requirements of Belgian festivals like Tomorrowland, Pukkelpop, and Couleur Café in mind — high-capacity, clearspan interior, and rapid deployment.

Q2: How many tents can be connected for a large festival venue?

A: Our modular design allows unlimited interconnection. Belgian event companies typically connect 5-10 units to create large festival halls. We provide detailed connection kits and structural calculations for any configuration size.

Q3: What fire safety documentation do you provide for Belgian festival permits?

A: We supply DIN 4102 B1 / Belgian M1 fire certificates, full material safety data sheets, TUV SUD structural certification, and wind load calculations per Eurocode 1 — the complete package Belgian safety authorities (SPF Intérieur/FOD Binnenlandse Zaken) require for event licensing.

Q4: How quickly can the tent be set up and dismantled between festival dates?

A: With a professional crew of 4-5 people, a standard unit can be fully erected in approximately 2 hours. The modular bolt-together system is designed for rapid deployment and dismantling — crucial for Belgian festivals with tight turnaround schedules.

Q5: Do you provide anchoring solutions for different Belgian venues?

A: Yes, we offer a range of anchoring solutions: heavy-duty ground stakes for grass/festival fields, weighted base plates for urban squares (common in Brussels and Antwerp city centers), and bolt-down systems for semi-permanent installations at regular event venues.
